

C. Scott Anthony, DO

Dr. Anthony received his medical training at Oklahoma State University College of Osteopathic Medicine. He then completed a residency in anesthesiology as well as a pain management fellowship at Washington University Barnes Hospital in St. Louis, Missouri. He is board certified in both anesthesiology and pain medicine through the American Board of Anesthesiology. Dr. Anthony retired from clinical pain management after 28 years of experience. He currently performs consulting work in the field of pain management and opioid therapy. Dr. Anthony is an Associate Clinical Professor of Surgery at Oklahoma State College of Osteopathic Medicine and serves as a Commissioner on the State of Oklahoma Commission on Opioid Abuse. Dr. Anthony is a key voice in the State of Oklahoma in the area of pain management and education in proper and appropriate use of opioid therapies in medical practice.